A Tribute to

RUSSELL REED

Here's to you, Russell Reed! You are kindness incarnate to all freshmen needing a friend. You are a fellow-helper to all seniors seeking jobs. The alumni honor you as leader and follow confidently. The spirit of Union University is in you and love for Union University dominates all your thinking. Therefore, the staff of Lest=We=Forget say with one voice,

Here's to you, Russell Reed!

Our Prayer

(DEDICATED TO THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1937)

*Our retrospect of former years remind
Us of our labor in the course pursued;
Our faculty, so patient and so kind,
Demand devotion and our gratitude.
Thus, with our preparation now behind,
We must press forward to the mark we've viewed.
A needy world is calling; we must find
Our place to fill with knowledge now imbued!*

*Now at the time for us to part, we pray,
"Dear Lord, in Thy great mercy do befriend
Each one of us on graduation day;
We place our hand in Thine. We do depend
On Thee to guide that we may never stray
From paths of service. May Thy love descend,
Abiding on each one who goes away;
The school, the faculty, and every friend."
Amen.*

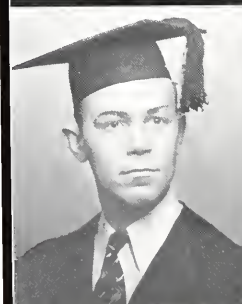

—CALVIN MEACHAM.

T H E S E N I O R S

"To make ourselves an ensample to you to follow us."—II Thess. 3:9.

DEPARTMENT OF

MRS. PRINCE

In Mrs. Prince Union is fortunate in having the instruction of one of the South's most accomplished musicians. She has studied extensively in both America and Europe, and in addition to her study of piano, Mrs. Prince has studied organ under De Lisle of St. Louis University and Arthur Davis of Birmingham, England; she is a graduate and post-graduate of piano under John B. Kindig of Berlin, and has been an artist student of Heniot Levy of the American Conservatory, of Maurice Aranson, Chicago Musical College, and Tobias Matthay, London.

MISS BROWNIE WEST

Miss Brownie West is a musician of the highest type. Her piano recital was given with poise, excellent interpretation, technique, and beauty of tone. Her playing possesses that poetic quality that bespeaks the innate feeling of a promising artist.

FINE ARTS . . .

MRS. E. E. TALIAFERRO

Mrs. E. E. Taliaferro, director of the college Glee Club, is an experienced choral director and is a recognized leader in the musical development of Jackson. Previous to her work in Jackson and at Union, Mrs. Taliaferro studied with Augusto Rotoli of Boston, Max Heinrick of New York, Dr. Holbrook Curtis (physician to Caruso) of New York, and Walter Golde also of New York, and she has taught at Rawlings Institute in Charlottesville, Virginia, and Colorado College in Colorado Springs, where she organized and directed the Vesper choir and girl's Glee Club.

MR. SNAVELY

Mr. Snavely, though a recent addition to the Union faculty has made himself invaluable to the school because of his ingenuity along musical lines and because of his innate musical ability. Since his arrival on the campus two years ago he has organized and directed a school band which has given creditable performances on numerable occasions. It was Mr. Snavely who brought about the West Tennessee High School Music-Literature Contest which has been made an annual affair sponsored by the University.

Alma Mater

*O, Alma Mater, our affections cling to thee!
Faithful and loyal may we ever be.
May our Master's watchcare
O'er us one and all extend,
Till again in Union
Heart and voice we blend.*

*Dear Alma Mater, hear thy offspring's plighted vow!
Firm and truer may we be than now.
Memory fondly lingers,
Calling back departed days;
Every task grows lighter
As we sing thy praise.*

*Loved Alma Mater, o'er us shed scholastic light,
E'en as we wander from thy halls tonight;
And though years divide us,
And in distant lands we roam,
Oft in dreams we'll gather
'Round our "Home, Sweet Home."*

CHORUS:

*Union, dearest Union,
Yes, we'll sing thy spreading flame!
Union, dearest Union,
Honored be thy name.*

—Words by FRANK KIMSEY, Class of '22.

The Coaches

Under the able tutelage of HEAD COACH A. B. HOLLINGSWORTH, aided and abetted by the newly-acquired ASSISTANT COACH HARBIN, a star in his own right, coming from our sister college, Howard last year's Dixie Conference Champions, Union again showed its ability to produce a typically spirited aggregation of which we are justly proud.

COACH A. B. HOLLINGSWORTH carefully moulded into his boys the elements of the true Christian spirit at Union, as well as the fundamentals of sound football.

FRESHMAN COACH R. L. AMMONS, Union's pride of last year's grid machine, was given the task of grooming the "greenies" for next year's Varsity service. We who are leaving wish them all good luck and "many touchdowns."

Season's Football Results

For the third consecutive year Union University's cleated warriors turned in a record of six victories, four defeats, and one tie, during a season of unprecedented upsets.

After two weeks of intensive training the Bulldogs met the University of Mississippi at Oxford. The setting sun saw the fighting Unionites fall before the Southeastern Conference power house.

Five days later at Crump Stadium in Memphis 5,000 fans saw an early three-point lead of the Bulldogs become insignificant before the touchdown barrage at Southwestern and the game ended 32-3.

With cleats digging into familiar turf the Bulldogs repelled an invading Mississippi State Teachers team 7-0, and in weeks to follow the impetus here gained bowled over Cumberland 18-12, T. P. I. 25-0, and on the event of their Homecoming, the Bulldogs climaxed the day by trimming the University of Louisville 27-7.

At Dyersburg the padded warriors rose to great heights annihilating Murray 19-6 and establishing an undisputed lead in the S. I. A. A.

Then came the disastrous road trip to Florida netting a 13-0 loss at Rollins and a 7-7 tie with Stetson. At home again and the Bulldogs "took" West Tennessee Teachers 50-0.

Thanksgiving and a trip to Mobile encountering Spring Hill completed the bill of upsets. The finale was lost 7-0.

However disastrous the road trips the Bulldogs point to only one defeat in the S. I. A. A. and no defeats at home.

Basketball Team . . .

Sporting a galaxy of former and potential stars, Union University's wizards of the hardwood floor displayed a brand of basketball that would warm the heart of any coach, however the scheduled "breathers" proved to be a Nemesis to Union's hoop-artists.

Sportdom and "hot-stove" leagues were given food for conversation when a pre-season invasion by the hoopsters of Memphis and Northern Mississippi terminated in a series of victories over the said regions leading independent teams.

Opening their season's schedule in the Armory, Union took the second fray with a sharp-shooting Memphis Coca-Cola team to lightly and consequently come out second best with the Mid-South Amateur Champs.

Sprinkling victories with scattered defeats in its conference race Union's prestige ebbed, but was again rocketed to great heights when an undefeated University of Mississippi fell before Union in two consecutive games. These two brilliant victories were undoubtedly the climax of Union's season, for although playing phenomenal ball, scattered defeats marred the remainder of the season. However, the Bulldogs turned in a fine record of eleven victories and five defeats in their S. I. A. A. race.

THE CAPTAIN

A new feature of Union University's basketball team this year was the election of a captain, and in this role was cast Bruce Duncan, a phlegmatic, unassuming youth, unanimously elected to lead his team-mates in their encounters in the game which he himself played with such polished brilliance that he was acclaimed as the best Union has ever displayed. Graduation will terminate Duncan's most eventful and successful career at Union.

The "greeny" football team in action as it defeated Northwest Jr. College 58-0.

The principals in Union's Freshmen Victories in basketball. Castle, Isbell, Fant, Baker, Carroll and Elliot.

The Freshman Teams .

The Freshman athletic teams under the tutelage of newly-acquired Coach R. L. Ammons, who is to be highly commended on his initial success, can point to only one defeat which was suffered by the "greenies" in their basketball game with Murray.

The football team incapacitated by a lack of schedule however defeated all three of its encountered opponents. Northwest Miss. Jr. college was defeated by a score of 58-0, while West Tennessee Teachers Frosh fell in two games by scores of 13-0, and 27-12, respectively.

The basketball team defeated Malesus High 26-24, Beach Bluff 23-17, W. O. W. Bemis 32-11, and Bemis High 26-23. The only defeat sustained by the freshmen came at the hands of the Murray Frosh by a score of 33-18.

From these results, the Varsity next year should be greatly augmented by the up and coming "greenies."

"Our field is our own student body; our aim is its Spiritual Enlightenment"

To the Baptist Student Union goes a peculiar distinction. It cannot properly be classed as an organization in the truest sense of the word, but rather, operates in a somewhat intangible manner in the heart of every Baptist student. It is the mythical link between the College, the Home, and the Church. The Council itself is for the purpose of strengthening these connections, the officers of which are elected by the student body. To enable each individual Baptist student to have the spiritual Peace that home affords, that his mind may be best prepared for progressive learning; which learning is afforded outlet by local church affiliations—these are the thoughts uppermost in the minds of the persons comprising the Baptist Student Union Council.

This current collegiate year finds the B. S. U. recipient of several outstanding honors. In December, 1936, after only three months of effort, Union's B. S. U. received its banner of First Magnitude, highest award for excellence and attainment. However, its real accomplishment has been in the field of appreciation, for with the drawing to a close of another B. S. U. year, Council members may well be proud of the foundation that has been laid. Now, each passing year may add its bit to a magnificent super-structure built in the image of Christ who is ever the Guiding Spirit of B. S. U.

"Proving that a life of Service is a life of Happiness."

In the busy stir of collegiate activity there is need for pause and reflection, in order that the ultimate goal for which the Christian Student strives may not be submerged by the demands of the present. Life Service Band has no aim save to keep the Source of Power of the college youth in Christ near at hand, by providing for him a regular time and place for meditation made powerful by seclusion and beautiful by quietness and reverence. To offset any possibility of a lack of balance between social and religious demands on the student, Life Service Band proudly dedicates itself, for with its programs entirely devotional and its aim directly spiritual, this end is gloriously achieved.

"Dorcas: A woman full of Good Works and Almsdeeds"

This organization at Union has for its third year enjoyed the distinction of being one of the foremost in the south and among the three best in the state of Tennessee. Striving to be more than simply another organization on a campus already overrun with such, the leaders of the Y. W. A. have tried to place it on an inspirational basis as well as do bits of real service to sections of Jackson not served by the various churches.

Having the cream among the young women of the campus as members, enjoying the best leadership possible both student and faculty, this splendid band has continued to grow and thrive in a realm where little emphasis is found: practical study of missions and urgent need of Baptist youth to answer the call of millions who have not yet heard of the Good News. Too, this organization has among its members several who contemplate definite work on the fields served by our denomination, thus more vitally does the spirit of actual participation move in mission activities studied each week by this group. Truly, they have "kissed the cross" and are modern Dorcas in "every good work and almsdeed."

Although Union is not a ministerial college, it has contributed to the Baptist Ministry several of the outstanding leaders in present-day Christian faith. To the J. R. Graves Society, where the educational principle of "learning by doing" is practiced very effectively, much credit should be given. For, with its meeting place becoming more hallowed with each successive year, youthful ministers consistently strive to master the principles of the Faith, and to profit by the rich traditions of service and love which every member finds embedded in his character upon graduation from Union. It is truly a spiritual organization whose primary aim is to be a medium by which the enthusiasm and energy of Christian youth may be directed by the ripened experience of older members, so as to ultimately give to the Faith an unending stream of consecrated talent able to grapple with modern needs. The goal is a worthy one; the Leader is faithful, and success has been attained.

BROWNIE WEST

The student body of Union is governed entirely by a Student Council. The members of the Council are elected by the student body. There are ten members—four Seniors, three Juniors, two Sophomores, and one Freshman. This plan of student government has proved to be very satisfactory.

The Nestor Club is the exclusive men's dinner club of Union University. It is composed of twelve members of the student body, either Juniors or Seniors, and a faculty sponsor. Dean A. W. Prince has been the faithful sponsor of the club for a number of years, as well as its official cheerleader. The club meets twice a month for dinner and the reading of a paper by one of its members. The climax of the year is the joint meeting with Hypatia, the sister club of the Nestors.

Tri V Club is an honorary club composed of Home Economics majors who have maintained a high scholastic record and have been outstanding in the field. The club has a dinner meeting where original papers of special interest in Home Economics are read; men and women of wide experience in the professional and commercial world are invited to speak from time to time. The honor of being Miss Home Economics was bestowed on Miss Verna Mae Brown, who has proved herself the most valuable girl in the department.

Members of the Palladian Literary Society, unwilling to relinquish their literary pursuits and to surrender the ideals, "Taste, Industry, and Wisdom," for which the society was noted and which had been perpetuated since its founding by Dr. G. M. Savage, more than fifty years ago, decided to change the method of its activities to meet the needs of a changing age. The result of this decision was the organization of the Palladian Breakfast Club in October, 1936. This club is composed of eighteen young women, maintaining high scholastic records. This year the club studied "Women of Yesterday and Today."

The Kardinal Key Klub, a booster club, was organized to sponsor any movement for the betterment of school spirit, clean sportsmanship, and love for our Alma Mater. It is one of the most outstanding organizations on the campus. The members of this club stand behind and encourage the student body to support the school's competitive teams, i.e., football, basketball, baseball, track, and debating. The membership consists of fifteen students elected because of their outstanding interest in forwarding any project sponsored by the school, athletic or otherwise, one faculty advisor, and the cheerleaders, who are elected by the student body. Homecoming, including a carnival, football game, parade, and the election of a king and queen, was the major project sponsored by the club this year. Other things are the Freshman Handbook, the "hello" campaign, and a scrubbing system for cheerleaders.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA

Founded at Indianapolis, Indiana, May 13, 1908

Colors: Light and Dark Purple

Official Publication: The Speaker

The principal qualification for membership is a participation in an intercollegiate oratorical contest or debate. The aim of the society is not primarily social, but intellectual. The old Alpha Phi Epsilon, an honorary literary and debating fraternity, became a part of the National Tau Kappa Alpha in 1935. One of the outstanding forensic activities sponsored this year by Tau Kappa Alpha was an Intramural Oratorical and Debate Contest.

The Cardinal and Cream, bi-weekly publication of the student body, has this year, under the capable direction of Editor Fite, sought to be truly the official organ of every student. Early in '37 the staff was reorganized and classified, more system was introduced, and a larger number of students were enlisted. All of which have been distinct contributions toward making Cardinal and Cream the best college newspaper in the South, an honor which is coveted for Union in next year's meeting of the Tennessee College Press Association. Our motto for next year will be, "Cardinal and Cream Is the Voice of Union," giving to Tennessee and the South the opinion of Union in regard to both local and national problems.

VERNA MAE BROWN	Assistant Snapshot Editor

LEST WE FORGET is the yearbook published annually by the Senior Class of Union University. Down through the years those who have served on the staff of LEST WE FORGET have sought to give to the students and friends of Union a chronological picture of the year's events. This year in addition to this immediate aim the staff has tried to make all those who read this book part-takers of the real Spirit of Union; that spirit which has caused devout, God-fearing men and women to give the best years of their lives toward making Union the spiritual center of this section of the South. This thought and purpose has been uppermost in the minds of those on the staff as they planned and executed this book. If, as you peruse these pages, you feel a warm glow about the heart for the privilege and opportunity that is yours in being counted a friend of Union, then our labor will not have been in vain.

THE NEWS-WEEK

THEATRICAL

THE DRAMA SEASON HERE— "BLUE MOUNTAIN BLUES" TO BE PLAYED

Rehearsals for the current offering of the Little Theatre Club have drawn to a close following the dress rehearsal at the gold room at the New Southern recently. The production was declared finished by all critics who saw it. Hushed comment has it that the play will be the smash-hit of the year when it begins its seasonal performance for the benefit of the public.

"Blue Mountain Blues" is a litling tragedy of modern days, starring two young country cousins, Blue Mountain Nell and Blue Mountain Sal, who come to the great city to see grandma, but never find her, and are forced to go to the hotel, where they find a lark. A noted critic said the human element expressed in a production of this kind was astounding and that all should see it.

Nell and Sal are supported in their roles by a great cast, including: Audrey Yarbrough, Rebecca Clayton, and Kathryn Baddour, who do all within their power to make the cousins happy during their stay.

The male roles in the play are amply supplied by such renowned actors as: Paschall Box, Wilkins Jones, Tasso Sharpe, Fred Newman, who, in turn, are supported by other fraternity men, and some not quite so iridescent in their amorous attempts.

The box office declares the house will be a complete sell-out on the opening night, so be sure to get your tickets early if you want a seat.

Wallace: "I see there's talk of another 'sit-down' strike."

Helen: "Yes, and if you were half a man you'd get out and get a job and be able to sit down with the rest."

PRIZE WINNER

Several of our great he-men of the gridiron are potential "would-be" poets. The contribution below, from none other than "Reverse" Perry Stolsis, our own All-American swagback (who, incidentally, is a hearty endorser of Zwieback "for all great backs"), is not altogether perfect, but he says it is a very strong emotion reflected in a not entirely tranquil state, and because of that, it should be almost poetry. Note his progressive style.

"LACHRYMOSE"

From the football field, where hearts are bold,
Comes a tale of fear, as yet untold.

Our hero was a fine lad, a lot like his dad,
'Til one small decision changed his position

From one that was swell to torment and hell.
For days and days he saw naught but black,

His ankles were swollen and his ribs were cracked,
His knees were twisted and his stamina wrecked,
He was all but ready for the old hearse-back.

It happened, they say, in a cold, callous way,
This arduous attempt, although well meant,
Of changing a mind to another's kind,
And to keep naught amiss the story's like this:

One said, they say, "I'm gonna convert you
To the regular way if I have to hurt you."

Hero laughed and said, "Old pal, can't you see
It's plain jealousy, it's something you're lacking
That keeps you cracking at me."

And one boiled and burned and inwardly churned
To get a chance to tear off the pants
Of him that would be of another than he.

And as the plot thickens, as plots always do,
Our pulses quicken with a lot of "hoo-hoo."
And around in a huddle with our brain in a muddle
Our story begins.

It happened not on a night in December,
If I remember 'twas a day in September,
When they faced each other on the field of fray,
With a do or a die one was going to sway,
Was going to tumble in the midst of the rumble
On that terrible day.
Now, I'm not one to praise, or even paraphrase,
But Blood was in the air, red was everywhere;
The stars, the moon, the whole universe
Was present, and even something worse—
Something I cannot put in verse.

But to continue with all this muddle,
Out of the huddle and into the line,
Glaring at each other for one last time,
They crouched as beasts ready to pounce
And devour their foe to the last little ounce.

I'm really unable to wholly get you
That horror in a mental picture.
But the signal was called, and back came the ball
To our hero, who fled and suddenly stopped dead
As if a giant rock had stopped his clock.

There was a tackle, a block, a punch, and a sock,
A twist and a wrench, a yank in the stench;
There were grunts and shouts, and curses and groans,
Bellows, yells, murmurs, and moans—
Our hero stopped dead—without even a loan.

Into oblivion our hero went
(An unconscious state is what I meant);

The birds sang sweetly, stars were bright, too;
'Tis awful, devastating, but terribly true—
Our hero—blasted—out in the blue!

Not only blue, but every other hue,
From the black of night to the color of light,

Was our hero, when revived, and allowed about,
And now for a moment let's hear him shout
From his present position his momentous decision.

"With both eyes black as black can be,
My ribs all cracked and water on my knee,
My ears torn off, and my ankle bones crushed,
My hair all out—there's none left to brush—
I'm sorry, old pal, but I just still can't see
Your dad-gummed old fraternity!"

EDITORIAL

This periodical is not written by the people, of the people, or even for the people. It is a compilation of events that have not occurred, and never will, in so far as we are concerned.

The policy of this publication is to please our public, so we do not propose to print the truth.

If you have any objection to offer, remember this: that there is nothing new under the sun, and we already know all the answers, so don't question us, and, anyhow, we didn't ask you to subscribe.

The editor has faithfully ransacked all the "skeletons in the closets," and has dug faithfully for all the dirt he could locate. The "digs," and "dirt," too, are kind of like classroom lectures—"heard today, and gone tomorrow," and are not intended to hurt or intimidate anyone or anything. Too, we are sorry to state that "ye olde Editor" finishes his vacation from Bolivar tomorrow, when he must return.

CLASS MEETING

Seniors Elect, Object, Reject

Last Tuesday night the thirty-seven thousand students composing the Senior Class of 1937 met on Farcey Hill for a moonlight session.

After a general riot and much discussion, a presiding official was not appointed so that order might be kept. Sixteen died a martyr's death before the measure passed. The bodies of the deceased cleared away, gave rise to the discussion of the class flower.

After considerable tossing of bouquets for hours, the vote was taken and the official count, presented by accountants approved by Good Housekeeping, gave the following results:

Tea Rose	12327 1/4
White Violet	00000 1/2
Violet	12327 1/4
Carnation	00000 1/2
Pansy	12328

Wild acclaim followed the announcement that the Pansy had won again. Pandemonium reigned until the suggestion for class motto was brought up.

Coming out of a huddle three hours later, and the blue air somewhat clarified, the motto evolved was "Never give up the Gyp."

Yellow and light yellow were the colors unanimously chosen in a close vote for class colors.

At this juncture, Dr. Bald Knott, professor of Eugenics, rose to a point of order and gave a 90-minute lecture on "The Perils of Marrying Without Heredity."

All fell asleep until Sally Slopp got her swing band into action to drown Dr. Knott out, and Elsie Bray and Margaret Burdts began to give a South Liberty version of "swinging" and "swaying" which might have been enjoyed had not a race riot broken out in the Spanish quarter of the class, to be countered by a Tong war from the Chinese section. When the police arrived six thousand were dead or dying, and twenty thousand had lost eyes, arms, legs, or were otherwise slightly injured.

Order restored, a proposed merger with the Junior Class to prevent graduation was thrown out when it was found that no one would graduate anyway.

Cheating was condemned because there were no new ways known to try.

Rena Vate was elected class witch and requested to ride a broom into the President's office next morning. While acquiescing, Rena was seen by the chaperon and campused for ten years.

Forthwith a move to adjourn to the Dean's house for a necking party was unanimously carried.

SOME FUN HEARD ON THE SLY

Dixie: "Earle, will you Mary me?"

Earle: "Dixie, you shouldn't talk Zeta way!"

Dean: "Not in a Stewart you, Dixie?"

Dixie: "How'd I j e w k n o w, Deanie?"

Martha Joe: "Some terrible things can be caught from kissing."

"Jo" Finger: "How true! You should see the poor fish my sister caught that way."

Dr. Williams: "Does your wife use your best razor to open cans?"

Dr. Rutledge: "Oh, yes, of course; but I use her best powder-puff for a shoe shiner."

Freshman Girl: "I want some advice on taking Home Ec."

Dean: "Go to Helen Hunt for it."

Wilma (to Earle): "I have brought this book back. Daddy told me it wasn't fit for a young girl like me to read."

Earle: "I think your father must be mistaken!"

Wilma: "Oh, no, he isn't. I've read it all through."

ANTICIPATION

It was a lovely May evening . . . away over in the east, just above a soot-hued ridge, a big, round, yellow moon was peeping out from behind a scattering, silver-tipped cloud . . . blinking stars in the heavens above seemed to be nodding "yes" as if they knew what was going to take place there; a soft, gentle breeze kind of sighed through the tops of the black locusts and sent white blossoms fluttering downward . . . like silver-winged butterflies gliding to a beautiful flower as they settled—sort of caressing-like, on the tufts of dewy grass. Across, over on another hill, you could hear doves—two of them—cooing their song of love, one to another. . . . A katydid, lost in the myriad of leaves and blossoms in the tree over them, with its bracketing song breaking in intermittently, seemed to chime in at just the right time to keep the lull and peace of the evening from carrying you into slumberland. Every now and then the pencil-light of a speeding car shot by on the highway below as if to prove that this really wasn't a dream . . . that everything was alive and things were honestly happening.

They had been in the same spot since the sun, apparently unnoticed, had slipped down, and for the past hour neither of them had uttered a sound . . . they were just there, these two—he, leaning against the trunk of the tree, a piece of rope held absently in his hand—she, reclining on the grass nearby, turning her head every now and then toward him, so that the mellow light of the moon was somewhat reflected in the soft eyes that were lifted to look into his face with an air of expectation. They were silent—he, enthralled at such a spectacle of nature, breathless in an air of complete intoxication. Again, she moved softly, turned her head with an impatient slowness to look searchingly into his eyes and murmured "Moo-o-o" in a low, plaintive tone.

"Be gosh, Bessie," he said, "I plum' forgot about milkin' time."

HANDHOLDERS

HARASSED

Rousing Campaign Brings Results

A recent campaign against the holding of hands at Frogjump College at first met with much disgust among the student body, until Professor Drizzle Schnozzle addressed them at a student rally.

"Hand holding transfers germs," said Prof. Schnozzle, "therefore, it is unhygienic."

Upon this revelation the co-eds had an idea, and under the guidance of Herr Drizzle a most beautiful specimen osculated a glass slide, which was immediately examined under a powerful microscope.

Official recount of the germs found on the kiss imprint revealed the astounding number of 47,365-798,231,198½ of these little, living organisms present.

Whereupon the co-eds, in further co-operation with the committee, went on a "kiss strike" and allowed no one, not even their fondest love, the privilege of kissing them.

It is always interesting to note how modern youth will follow revealing testimony.

The men of Frogjump campus, after hearing the decision of the fairer sex, called a mass-meeting and further co-operated with the committee at large (and the co-eds, too), went on a "date strike," and refused to be in the presence of one of the fairer sex.

This action on the part of the men is to be commended, also.

Fresh: "Did you ever see a reed rustle?"

Frosh: "No, but I've seen a Rustle Reed."

Dr. Schoggins: "What is the state religion of Spain?"

Kilzer: "It's in a terrible state, professor."

Basden: "Are you bothered by improper thoughts?"

Huffman: "No, I rather like them."

Allen: "Don't you think I have even horse sense?"

Stigler: "You couldn't have any other kind."

RECITAL

STUDENTS PERFORM

Miss Carrie Onmore, instructor of speech, dancing, etc., is offering her entire class in an elaborate recital to take place at an early date in the "pent house" of the new Court House downtown. It is thought a huge audience will be on hand to witness the entire performance, which will last until the wee small hours.

Each of her students has given a major portion of his time for the past six months to his part in order to insure the success of the event.

Here is her program, in part:

Reading—"Gee, but I'm glad I'm not a girl"—By Master Roy (Ox) Hardcastle.

Dance—"The Trial of the Nymph" (Contortion)—By Miss Eva Jewell Allen.

Song—"I Love My Man" (Dunn)—By Miss Elizabeth Towles.

Dance—"The Nymph's Trial" (Adagio)—By Miss Frankie Lee Mackey.

Dialogue—"You Tell Her, I Stutter"—By Roy Thompson, Chester Abney.

Dance—"The Spring of the Nymph" (Spring Dance)—By Miss Anne Grove.

Pantomime—"L'Amour, Toujours, L'Amour"—By Pat Patton, Leland Wingo.

Dance—"The Fall of the Nymph" (Fall Dance)—By Paul Medlin.

Song—"Throughout the Night" (Kritt)—By Vena Clark.

REVELATION

A group of four students was in a serious session over in Jackleg Alley a few nights ago. Our star reporter heard this much of the conversation:

Freshman: "Boy! College life is sure swell. I feel like I could go out and conquer the world now."

Sophomore: "Freshman, what do you know about life; I've already conquered the world; I can stand before anybody now and tell them what I think."

Junior: "I know there is a place in this world for a man of my ability; my problem is locating the place and stepping right into it."

Senior: "I still have hopes of finding some kind of a job in June."

POLLY TICKS

Students Make News Week's Hall of Defame

At a recent meeting of its Board of Defectors, News Week elected by a overwhelming majority the three who are pictured below.

(Ed. note: On account of the fact that these three had no pictures available in which they were not wearing numbers under their chin, we had to forego publishing them. We refer you to the Rogues' Gallery if you wish to see their likenesses. In order to facilitate ease in locating them at the gallery, we publish their number instead of their pictures.)

Dean Brooks Lee Rush Bill Frye
25375 35291 23689

Honorary Dean Brooks, a political power on our campus, won his spurs fighting alligators and Indians in the Florida Everglades, and has been going at that 'gator something ever since.

Much credit is due him for the success of the well-oiled machine of which he is a member (don't misunderstand me when I say oiled).

A strict believer in hard tactics, he breaks the women's hearts with as much ease as he pours oil to the voters before election time. (During a recent interview he stated he had not as yet found a way to keep that oil running after elections.)

However, an honest believer in the principle, "Deceit Pays" (but aren't we all?), he lives his life on that great rule, with a heart full of love for everyone.

His great desire in life is to be an influential social worker or a practicing psychiatrist, or something.

Among his leading henchmen are "Honest Cal" Guy, "Big Hopes" Hale, and cautious Quentin Smith.

Lee Rush (Junior to his close friends and other enemies) first saw the light a short time after he was born, lost it shortly thereafter, and has been seeking it ever since.

A hard-driving, energetic young person, his unswerving tactics thoroughly justify the position awarded him by News Week.

A man of the world, versed in the ramifications of a modern civilization, he takes things as they are, with or without deceit, and makes nothing of them.

In recent elections his machine ran on water rather than oil, and as a consequence his party fell beside the way. Rumor has it that to prevent coarse running and rustiness, he and his party are shifting to the use of oil in the coming elections.

Junior (to his close friends, etc.) is ably assisted by such nobles as Wilkins Jones, who looks after the ladies for him; Acid-Jack Glover, who is adept in the acid-tossing game, and Curley (Cute) Reynolds (when he's not waiting at the gate for Kate.)

Bill (the thrill) Frye combines the experience of a seafaring goby, the punch of a seasoned prize fighter, and the wisdom of Moron the Great to direct his well-augured machine.

A constant threat (like a bad cold or dandruff), he is always on hand at election time.

Among his most famous successes is winning the election of class hero for Goo-Goo Philips. Goo-Goo's running-mate for class heroine, that smiling young Turkish co-ed, Miss Wonda Butikaint, was not quite so fortunate, being defeated by one-fourth of a vote.

Bill (the bull) reaches for his sweets rather than have anyone do it for him.

His helpers, J. Borden (the milkman) Hester, "Buzzy" Busby, "Lamby" Lambert, received honorable mention.

Bill's crowning success was the thirty-five-mile parade he staged at homecoming.

Heard at the House of Detention: "Misdemeanor will now Sing Sing that well-known swing song from Leavenworth, 'See You at Sunrise,' accompanied by Petit Larceny."

LEARNING WHILE SERVING

From boyhood it was said of Abraham Lincoln that he was a "learner." In his ambition to post himself he sat at the feet of whoever could teach him. In time he overtopped them all. • The "learner" rises above his competitors in all life's activities. He masters conditions because he learns all about them. • We sit at the feet of the public wherever we have stores, learning and posting ourselves of the needs of home and person as best we can. • Diligently applying ourselves to the responsible task of providing those needed when needed is the virtue to which may be traced much of the extraordinary development of this company.
